Puget Sound Salmon Fishing.
This important industry is annually gaining in volume. The catch this year, although not as large as expected on account of the delayed fall rains, will be about 15,000 cases, four dozen cases per case.

There are six factories engaged in the business. The largest has a capacity for canning 30,000 pounds of fish per day, and employs six seines, costing, with the necessary sinks and scows, $1,500 each, manned by Indian crews. The packing is done by Chinese, of whom 150 are employed at $1 per day per head, boarding themselves.

The cost of the fish is $10 per one hundred—10 cents each. The average weight is six pounds. Single specimens are frequently caught exceeding twenty pounds, but the smaller sizes are more palatable and more in demand for home consumption.

They are caught in the bays and harbors of the coast. After running up into the fresh water streams to spawn the fish soon lose their flavor.

Trotting for the fish is exciting sport, and much indulged in. They are tame and flight to the end, but are not as tame as the salmon of the Atlantic coast, and are more easily exhausted.—Scientific American.

Drugs at Long Beach.
Considerable space is taken up in a French periodical with the discussion of phenomena whose genuineness is not recognized, particularly with Dr. Lay's experiments upon the action of drugs at a distance. A committee of the Academy of Medicine was appointed to examine the correctness of Dr. Lay's conclusions, and they find unconceivable suggestion to be at the basis of it all. When the contents of the vials containing the drugs were unknown to those present, the subject also failed to be appropriately affected by them. So, again, these pretended mysticisms fall to the ground, and exemplify the pitfalls of the subject as well as the sacrificial nature of methods often adopted by eminent scientists. Mention should also be made of the fact that the church has recently entered into relations with hypnosis by a letter from the bishop of Madrid, warning his brethren against the evils of the new movement and placing it in line with the forbidden treatment of miracles.—Science.

Mute by Telephone.
While the reception was being held at Mrs. Dickson's, a gentleman went to the telephone to speak to a friend in another part of the city, when he was attracted by the sweet music imaginable that came over the wires. He listened for a while, and said the distance and hour together made the sounds as sweet as waltz music.—Atlanta Journal.

To Force an Issue.
Several weeks ago parties went before the city clerk and tendered legal money to legal amount, asking for a license to run a variety theatre on the northeast side of the square. The city clerk refused to issue the license. The same parties soon after presented a petition to the city council, asking permission to run a variety theatre in said place. This petition was refused, or, in parliamentary language, was laid on the table, which was equivalent to a refusal. Yesterday the same parties applied again to the city clerk for a license, tendering legal money in the amount provided for by ordinance, respecting licenses to theatres and shows and the license was again refused. It is now understood that those formal applications for license having been properly made and refused the variety theatre will be started and run, and the right to run such a theatre be tested before the courts, in case the city council should interfere with the business. Legal advice has been taken on the subject, and an issue will be made with the city council on the right to refuse a license. It will make an interesting fight in case it comes to one, which it is likely to do, and will be abundant room for discussion of the general principles underlying the rights of a city under a charter and of the technicalities of charters, ordinances and policies. The old adage that every wrong has a legal remedy will be verified in this case, if the council is right in calling the variety show a wrong.

Advices from Webster county, Iowa, state that it is probable that the eviction of river land settlers will begin in a few days. Mr. Snell, who owns the navigable company's title to most of the balance of lands in dispute, returned to Fort Dodge, and says that unless the weather changes in a few days and becomes so cold that it is impossible to evict the settlers, he will leave the United States marshals again in the field, with instructions to finish the eviction of all remaining on his lands who have not got their titles from him. He said that he did not believe the bill passed by the house for the relief of the settlers would do any figure.

Commissioner's court was busy all day today passing upon the bonds offered by county officers. The following have been examined and accepted: E. W. Punahard, justice 3d precinct, bond $1000, bondsmen, W. B. Turner and J. R. Strage. J. W. Taylor, county attorney, bond $2,500, bondsmen, S. A. Hogan, J. A. Sears, C. W. David, tax collector, bond $30,000, bondsmen, W. W. Seley, M. Seley, Travis Jones, J. V. Smith, W. H. Lednum and James B. Baker. John J. See, bond $3,000, bondsmen, Geo. Clark, J. T. Davis, W. W. Seley, Jas. H. Gillan, bond $3000, bondsmen, Jas. Briggs, Thos. Harrison, F. M. Makole, justice precinct No. 1, bond $1000, bondsmen, T. A. Kirkland and John A. Harrison.

PERSONALS.
Mrs. Walstein Bowman and son are on a visit to the family of Dr. Brown.

Rev. Mr. DeHart, of the Episcopal church, is recovering slowly from a protracted affliction.

Mr. A. M. Prescott, returned to-day from San Antonio, where he has been on the sad duty of attending the funeral of a venerable father.

Mr. John M. Connor, has been appointed local editor of the Fort Worth Gazette, in this city. The selection is a good one; for Mr. Connor is a newspaper man throughout.

A Letter.
House-keepers, bear in mind "money saved is money made." Why may it be old ruts when you can live on the fur of the land? For instance, we sell Cutting and Lusk's three-pound goods (assorted) for $2.00 per dozen. Do you ever hear of such a thing? We have everything you can call for. Our morning tourist, Mr. Adams, mounted upon a foot moustang, will take your order. If you phone us our Mr. Brown will, while wrapping up goods, hook his car over the wire and register your order. And we will deliver with dispatch, care and business.

Respectfully,
JAMES R. ROUSSEAU.

Waco, Dec. 10, '88.

AFTERNOON NOTES.

December 22d is the shortest day in the year.

LeDoux will duplicate prices of any reliable jewelry firm.

There were four large business went up yesterday in Texas, at Winoona, Sherman, Denton and Texas-Kana.

Before selecting your Christmas presents call on E. P. LeDoux, for prices. His stock of jewelry is complete, and prices low, 403 Austin ave.

A basket of fine fruit was taken last night from the front of the confectionery store of Mrs. White, probably in joke, but the owner does not see the point of the joke. There is another name for such tricks she thinks.

Special attention is called to No. 408 Austin ave. Mr. LeDoux's complete stock of fine jewelry, consisting of diamonds, watches, bronzes, imported and Brass clocks, fine Silverware &c. He tells us that he is overstocked and in order to reduce it, he will sell at a great reduction during December. He will not be undersold.

Appropos of "Bible Character Study," the characters are limited to men, women, children and boys. There is through the entire Bible, from Genesis to Revelation, no mention of any little girl by name and no mention made of a little girl as a girl. It is men nearly all the time, women far less frequently, boys very seldom and girls, not at all.

It will be remembered that on Sept. 12th, a package containing $4000, disappeared, or was stolen from the Pacific express company. The matter was kept very quiet, but an arrest has at last been made, and the party arrested is either in town, or will reach here on an evening train. The arrest was made at Denton, and half the money is said to have been found on the person of the party taken. Particulars cannot be got, at this hour.

Commissioner's court was busy all day today passing upon the bonds offered by county officers. The following have been examined and accepted: E. W. Punahard, justice 3d precinct, bond $1000, bondsmen, W. B. Turner and J. R. Strage. J. W. Taylor, county attorney, bond $2,500, bondsmen, S. A. Hogan, J. A. Sears, C. W. Seley, Jas. H. Gillan, bond $3000, bondsmen, Jas. Briggs, Thos. Harrison, F. M. Makole, justice precinct No. 1, bond $1000, bondsmen, T. A. Kirkland and John A. Harrison.
